

Regulations on the Records of Undergraduate Course Scores

Course scores can be recorded on a percentage or five-point scale (excellent, good, Average, pass, fail). A passing score is 60 points on a 100-point scale.

The overall score of the course is assessed by the process assessment and the final assessment. In principle, the proportion of process assessment scores shall not be less than 30%.

The quality of students' learning is assessed by the GPA.

$$GPA = \frac{\sum(\text{course credits} * \text{course score point})}{\sum(\text{course credits})}$$
